Digital China receives “China’s Most Promising Companies 2009” award

(20 April 2010, Hong Kong) Digital China Holdings Limited (“Digital China” or the “Group”; Stock Code: 00861.HK), a leading integrated IT services provider in China, was ranked by The Asset magazine as one of “China’s Most Promising Companies 2009” in recognition of its excellent operation and management, outstanding results and good corporate governance practice. Mr. Lin Yang, President of Digital China, received the award at a ceremony held in Hong Kong today. Meanwhile, the Group is pleased to announce that its Citizen Card solution was presented the “China Informatization Project Award 2009” at The China Computer World’s CIO & CEO Summit 2009 (“CIO & CEO Summit 2009”).

Mr. Lin Yang, President of Digital China, said, “It is a great honour for us to be named by The Asset magazine as one of China’s Most Promising Companies in 2009. This not only reflects on the optimism of international investors about the outlook for Digital China’s IT expansion in China, but also shows a strong market confidence in our ‘customer-focused and service-oriented’ development strategy. We have achieved robust growth in our IT service business after years of effort. Our innovation capability and competitiveness have continued to improve. Our IT solutions have been well received by many industries. Moreover, our Citizen Card solution won the ‘China Informatization Project Award’ in recognition of our significant contribution to national IT development.”

The Asset magazine invited investment experts and financial analysts to select “China’s Most Promising Companies 2009” according to a series of rigorous selection criteria such as revenue and profitability, management quality, corporate governance standards, business attitudes towards minority shareholders and the effectiveness of investor relations. Digital China was ranked third in the technology sector due to its leading position in the market, high standards of corporate governance, clear operating strategies and outstanding IT products and services.

Meanwhile, the “China Informatization Project Award 2009” was aimed at recognizing IT projects which made significant contributions to the country and society, stimulated the upgrading of IT and promoted informatizational development in China. The Citizen Card solution developed and promoted by Digital China has become an effective means of improving urban management and offers a lot of convenience to residents. It sets a trend for future development of China’s IT growth. After being rolled out in Yangzhou last year, the Citizen Card was launched in major cities in the Yangtze River Delta such as Wuxi and received enthusiastic responses from users.
